FAQ's

What is the GED®?

The GED® is a high school Grade 12 equivalency* credential.

In the early 1940's veterans returning to the United States after World War II needed to obtain academic credentials to get civilian jobs and gain access to tertiary education or training. The GED® test was developed for this purpose, similar to an adult matric. It has subsequently been written by more than 17 million students in the USA and around the world, including South Africa!

All fifty states in the United States officially offer the GED® tests and they are written in more than 3000 testing centres worldwide.

FAQ's

What subjects does the GED® test?

The GED® test consists of four subjects which you can book to write on different days:

- Reasoning through Language Arts – 150 minutes (including a 10-minute break)
- Mathematical Reasoning – 90 minutes
- Science – 90 minutes
- Social Studies – 90 minutes

FAQ's

What is the pass mark on the GED® test?

Each test is scored on a scale from 100 to 200 and you must get 145 for each subject to pass. This means you should answer at least 73-75% of the questions on each test correctly in order to pass.

You must pass each test in order to pass the GED® overall.

FAQ's

Is the GED® credential recognized in South Africa?

Example of a SAQA Certificate of Evaluation

*SAQA, the South African Qualifications Authority, has evaluated the GED® and found the National Senior Certificate as its closest comparable qualification. Candidates with a GED® credential may be eligible to apply for a Certificate of Evaluation from SAQA which states that the closest comparable qualification in South Africa is the National Senior Certificate (matric) or an NQF Level 4 qualification. You can read this for yourself on their site here: SAQA

FAQ's

Can candidates with a GED® credential apply to a South African university?

Example of a certificate of foreign conditional exemption issued by Universities South Africa

A student can only be accepted to study at a South African university if they qualify for, apply for and are granted exemption from Universities South Africa (USAF, formerly known as HESA).

USAF no longer accepts the GED for exemption, but students can still apply to colleges, overseas universities and international online universities.

To apply directly to SA universities, the AHSD would be a better option. Please see the AHSD info packs for more details.

FAQ's

Will I be able to study at a University or College?

Yes – you can study at college or university with a GED®.

- GED® graduates may apply to overseas universities and international online universities.
- GED® graduates may qualify for admission to higher certificate and diploma courses in a wide range of fields at South African colleges.
- After graduating from college, students can then apply to SA Universities. If they would rather skip the college step, the AHSD would be a better option (please see the AHSD info packs).

- Recognition of Prior Learning – All higher education institutions in South African must have a policy and procedure to assess prospective students' RPL to see if they can enter the courses with a reasonable chance of success.
- RPL provides a way for the university to acknowledge your knowledge and skills gained via non-formal education and/or work experience, in order to obtain admission towards a qualification. It may also include candidates lacking the minimum requirements for entry into a formal learning program (e.g. matriculation endorsement).
